Crescent Head Pool has received a special grant to provide swimming lessons to Aboriginal students in our school. Therefore a selected number of students will be participating in the swim/swim and survive program being held at Crescent Head over the next ten days. Your child will have received a blue note if they were selected. Please return this form to your child’s teacher by this Friday 4th September.

Please Note: All children will be able to participated in the School Swimming and Water Safety Program which will be held next term from 9th – 20th November. Cost will be $30 for pool entry and swimming lessons are free. More information and notes will go home next term.

Out of School Activities

Last week Grady brought his white chook in to class to show everyone. Then Chloe, Grady, Jakarlile and Glen went to all of the classes in the school. Grady even hypnotised the silky cross to stay still and go to sleep. When he clapped the chook started moving again. Everyone was confused!! Naokii

On Wednesday 19th August my friend Grady brought in a silky cross bantam. We were out in the garden and he told us to close our eyes so I did. Two seconds later I felt chook feet on my head. We went around the whole school to show other classes. The chicken is a girl and her name is Whitey. Chloe

Last week Grady had a chook and he showed the class. The chook did a trick and it was fantastic. Grady put the chook’s head into its feathers and swung it ten times. Then he put it down and it didn’t poke its head out or move. Jakarlile

Last Wednesday Grady brought a silky cross bantam chicken to class. It trampled all over me and my computer. It was funny and weird. Bailey
